Instruction Maunal

We would like to congratulate you on your new baby!

We think you have made a wise choice, and we hope that you will receive many years of pleasure from this model. This model is the most advanced up to date, and would like to praise the female manufacturer for having put so much sweat and effort into the 9 month development phase of this model. Our thanks go out also to the male manufacturer, for his 5 minute contribution.

Choice of model

There may be small differences to the type of model originally wanted.

This is not intentional, and any small parts can be normally either bent into shape (large nose), or held back with sticky tape (protruding ears).

Your model should reach you in a fully assembled condition. If there are indeed any major parts missing, please see the section “additional accessories” for a suitable replacement parts.

You may have noticed that your model has a strange colour.

The blue colour after delivery is perfectly normal, and will disappear after the model has been warmed up a little. Please do not use any appliances such as a micro-wave oven, or boiling water for this purpose.

The overall and final colour of the model is determined by which manufacturers were involved. In the case of a drastic difference in colour, we recommend that the manufacturers consult their records in order to rule out the possibility of foreign suppliers.

Switching On

The model should have already been activated during the delivery. This normally takes place with a kick-start, or a slap, and this method should only be practiced at this stage. Further slapping or kicking at a later stage, could damage the model beyond repair. Afterwards, if the model does not respond, a poke with a finger should be enough to start up the system.

ATTENTION: When the model reaches a certain ages, it is necessary to restart it more often.

After 14 years of usage, a poke with the finger invokes a system start, although it will be in “protection mode”.

After 80 years of usage, a poke with the finger doesn't always invoke a system start, but is useful to see in the model is still functioning.

Correct usage

Do not expose to direct sun-light for long periods of time!

Do not drop from great height (unless together with product 01A001).

Keep away from Water.

Do not obstruct the audio outlet with pillows to reduce the noise. The loudness can be adjusted by other means (see product 02T002).

Maintenance

Many customers have complained about a problem with the model leaking yellow fluid. We are fully aware of this fault in the model, and are working on this problem. We can assure you that the leaking of yellow liquid should stop after about 2 years. If this is not the case you must get in contact with our call-centre (department Psycho) for a full service.

You are strongly advised not to use corks or super-glue in the meantime. Keep your model clean and well oiled at all times.

The type of Fuel which is used has a great effect upon the performance of the model. Be sure to use only the recommended fuel. Using the wrong sort of fuel could be dangerous. That means that the legal concentration of gas could be exceeded, or even an explosion could occur.

At any rate this means that part number 01A002 must be replaced immediately.

ATTENTION: If this part is not changed, the fail safe mechanism is activated automatically. This audio signal will gradually increase until it reaches an unbearable height, and you may notice a slight change of colour in the model (from light rosé to dark red).

Changing of disposable equipment. (Product 01A002)

Sadly, we cannot include the instructions for changing of product 01A002 in this paper. Due to the shocking nature of the pictures, (not to mention the smell), this is not a subject for people of a nervous disposition. In order to get some sort of idea of what we are talking about we recommend the following:

- 1) Fill your mouth with spinach, milk, chocolate cake, and carrots.
- 2) Chew for 20 Minutes without swallowing.
- 3) Spit everything onto a white wall (at a distance of 2 meters).
